Award of All-India Crop Competition Prizes (Changes in the Procedure).

In supersession of the Press Note No. 56, dated 24th June 1952, issued by this office in connection with the award of the All-India Crop Competition prizes of Rs. 5,000 each, in addition to the certificate of merit "KRISHIPANDIT" to the farmers who secure the highest yields per acre for six principal crops (viz., paddy, wheat, potato, jowar, bazra and gram) in the competitions to be held in the various States in India during 1952-53, on the recommendations of the State Governments, the Secretary, Indian Council of Agricultural Research, has now stated that the high yields reported by the State Governments were considerably exaggerated and the Government of India felt that unless suitable steps were taken to check inflated results to ensure correct reporting, the confidence of the public in the crop competitions would be completely shaken and the world at large would begin to feel that the results were not real.

The Government of India, after careful consideration, came to the conclusion that adequate supervision could not be ensured unless the final competition for determining the all-india prizes was confined to manageable proportions.

The Government of India have, accordingly, decided to introduce a system of "heats" and to treat the persons achieving the highest yields in the State competitions as eligible to compete among themselves in a final competition which would determine the all-India prizes.

According to the above system, all-India prizes and the certificate of merit "KRISHIPANDIT" will not be awarded in future on the basis of the highest yields reported by State Governments as a result of State Competitions.

The first six persons who obtain the highest yields in the State Crop Competitions would be regarded as eligible for competing during the next year among themselves, to qualify for the All-India Crop Competitions and the names of such persons will be recommended to the Indian Council of Agricultural Research for the award of All-India Crop Competition prizes.

Further particulars may be obtained from the local Assistant Directors of Agriculture.
